

AYERS ROCK RESORT

Voyages Ayers Rock Resort is a major contributor of indigenous employment. They employ about 100 indigenous trainees in hospitality and tourism to begin their careers in the growing experience industry. For more information visit ARR Indigenous Training & Employment.

Voyages and Angliss National have been working collaboratively since the Indigenous Traineeship Program commenced in 2011 delivered at Ayers Rock Resort. Trainees are recruited locally and nationally to learn whilst you earn. It includes relocation cost and living expense assistance. Best of all, you are offered employment once you have successfully completed the Certificate III qualification and met the required performance standards at the Resort. Once completed you may choose to advance to the Future Leaders program.

Voyages Ayers Rock Resort is a major contributor of Australian Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander employment and together with William Angliss Institute, offer the following qualifications.

HOME VALLEY STATION

If you take up a traineeship with Ayers Rock Resort, you can also apply to work and live at the remote Home Valley Station for 6 months when it becomes a hub for travellers and trainees alike!

It's on the famous Gibb River Road in the Kimberley region in Western Australia and located on beautiful 3.5 million acres of land.

For more information visit Home Valley Station.

Please add after ...acres of land...

Home Valley Station is a seasonal property, operating during the Kimberley dry season from May through October. Trainees are seconded to work at the property during this period – therefore, suitable candidates should be selected from intakes in October, November and December to ensure that the program pre-requisites are met.
